maltabiennale.art: ONE MONTH TO GO

Malta's international gathering of creative minds and cultures has, to date, attracted proposals from 6 continents.

58 different countries;
and counting...

Malta is gearing up to host its first ever international contemporary art biennale, titled maltabiennale.art, taking place in spring of 2024. A first for the islands, the biennale will be investigating the island's identity, shaped by periods of colonisation and location in the heart of the Mediterranean.

Local and international artists alike are being invited to present proposals aligning with this theme.

WHO WILL EVALUATE THE PROPOSALS

The applications will be evaluated by the selection board of maltabiennale.art, which is composed of national and international critics, curators, architects, and art dealers with decades of combined experience and in-depth knowledge of the contemporary art world.

HOW THE SELECTION PROCEDURE WORKS

Selected proposals will go through two stages as follows:

The Selection Board evaluates the requirements and the general project idea on the basis of criteria identified in the call and selects the artists with the best profiles and the most interesting ideas from whom a project dossier will then be requested.

During the second phase, the selected artists will be requested to present in-depth dossiers containing all details pertaining to the proposal, with particular attention to the exhibition project, the economic framework, and the schedule. Based on the criteria identified in the call, the commission will also assess the proposals in terms of concreteness, feasibility, environmental impact, the budget presented, and international competitiveness.

APPLICATIONS

Artists have one month left to apply for the first edition of maltabiennale.art, with the call closing at noon (CET) on Friday, the 25th of August 2023.
